Crisis Management

Dear Dan

I was so pleased to see this A.M.'s paper. So often, the "Fires in the In Basket" of day-to-day management have preempted any longer range forward planning.

Of particular concern is our lack of a handle on protracted false alarms/"cry-wolf" problems, of which I imagine we will see much more in the next few years.

You doubtless know very well my own interest, if not competence, in this mission. Please remember me if I can help in any way.

Yours,

Joshua Lederberg
