Prof. Cerami's work on glycosylation of tissue proteins — I thought might be of special interest to you personally as a lead to the afflictions that have unhappily afflicted your wife.

(He is one of the most active investigators on campus in the developments that may lead to significant pharmaceuticals. You may have to read between the lines of the annual report to see such implications in the work of a number of your colleagues.)

I also look forward to seeing you more personally upon your next visit to New York. Sincerely,

John.
